As the last approver in the chain, Human Resources will review the posting and make any necessary adjustments before it goes live on Missouri S&T’s career portal.

Extending Posting Deadlines

Vacancies can be extended with an emailed request from the posting department to the HR Staff Recruiter. The following information should be included:

- Position number
- Job Opening ID (JOID)
- Additional length of posting
- Brief justification

Applicant Process

Routing Applications

Applications are routed daily; however, the time fluctuates. Hiring Managers are normally sent an email with the number of applications routed that day. If they do not receive an email, then no applications were received for that posting. Hiring Managers and interested parties can see the routed applications.
Screening Applications

Hiring managers may request that Human Resources screen applications based on the minimum and preferred qualifications. In this case, only qualified applicants will be routed to the department.

Hiring managers can utilize the interest feature to rank applicants and track the applications that have already been reviewed. This feature should be used instead of rejecting applications at this point in the hiring process.

Viewing Applications

Open your navigation bar, click navigator > recruiting > search job openings. Enter the job opening ID (this should be a five-digit number) and then search. Click the job opening title, highlighted in blue, and from there your applicants will be listed for you to review.

Dispositioning Candidates

Invite to Interview/Interview

After applications have been reviewed, interviewers determine who to interview and the hiring manager or designated administrator updates the applicant dispositions to Invite to Interview. An email, with the following information, must then be sent to affact@mst.edu* for approval before applicants are contacted for interviews.

- Position number or job ID
- List of Tier 1 candidates
- List of Tier 2 candidates (if any)
- Any additional information which may be relevant to the selection of candidates.

The Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action representative will review the information for compliance. Hiring departments may be contacted with questions or recommendations. Upon approval, an email will be sent confirming interviews can be scheduled and the disposition status will be updated to interview. The representative will upload the approval email under Activity and Attachments within the job opening in eRecruit.

After approval email from affact@mst.edu is received, departments schedule interviews and communicate with candidates. Interviews are conducted and interviewers select a final candidate.

*Please note that if your department falls under the Provost, you will need to send the list of interviewees to provost@mst.edu. Their office will review and then send the list on to the Affirmative Action email.
Job Offers

Creation

Once you have selected the final candidate and are ready for an offer to be extended, you will create the offer in eRecruit. Offers should only be extended to the candidate by the HR department, once the job offer has been fully approved through eRecruit. Communication between the department and candidate should cease until the official offer has been extended. This is to protect all parties from confusion and misinformation.

Open your navigation bar > click navigator > recruiting > search job openings. Enter the job opening ID (this should be a five-digit number) and then search. Click the job opening title, highlighted in blue, and from there your applicants will be listed.

Find the applicant, scroll to the right, click on the Other Actions drop down box, choose Recruiting Actions, and then Prepare Job Offer.

Verify that the position number, offer date, and start date are all correct. This start date is contingent on all other processes being completed and may change once the official offer is accepted.

Under Job Offer Components: choose base salary for the component, enter in the offer amount, and the frequency. Please note if you have any additional components, such as a moving allowance, select Add Offer Component and add information there.

Add the following information into the Comments box:

- Anticipated start date
- MoCode(s)
- FTE
- Salary and benefits amount
- Supervisor position number and name that the employee will report to
- Campus address and phone number

Once these steps are completed, scroll back up and Submit for Approval.
Next add the job offer approval chain. If you do not see the Approvals tab near the top of the screen, go back to the applicants screen, find your applicant, scroll over to Other Actions, and click on Recruiting Actions > Prepare Job Offer > Approvals tab.

Before you approve, select green plus, between hiring manager and multiple approvers, to add the approval chain below.

Approvers will receive an email when the offer is ready for them to approve. They should review the information for accuracy and approve the offer if the information is acceptable. Once they approve, the next person in the chain will receive an email that the offer is ready for them to approve.

As the last approvers in the chain, Human Resources will complete a compensation review. Hiring managers will be contacted about the proposed offer if additional information is needed. Once the review is completed and finalized, Human Resources will extend the offer to the candidate.

Accepting

After an offer is extended and the candidate accepts, an offer letter will be sent to the candidate and the job offer will be approved in eRecruit. It is not until a signed offer letter has been received that the candidate will be dispositioned to Accept status.

Note: Human Resources will send a correspondence email to all remaining applicants notifying them that they have not been chosen, once the hiring process is complete.

Counteroffers

If a candidate counters a job offer, Human Resources will notify the hiring department via email. If the department chooses to accept or counter the counteroffer, it will go through another compensation review by Human Resources. After the review, Human Resources adds the original approval chain back into eRecruit and notifies all approvers of the revised offer.

Declined Offers/Reposting Positions

If a candidate chooses to decline an offer, Human Resources will approve the job offer, disposition the candidate to Reject status, and notify the hiring department via email. If the department has a second applicant they would like to extend an offer to, they may do so by following the original job offer process.

If the department chooses to repost the position, they will need to notify Human Resources for further instructions.
