myPerformance

Changes for 2019:

Updated step deadlines provide consistency across the system and make it easier to identify where you are in the process.

Fewer comment requirements reduce the amount of time you'll spend on your self-appraisal and will keep you from duplicating examples. Instead, a single overall comment section will be required, regardless of the rating, at the very end of the self-appraisal.

Reminders based on where you are in the process mean you'll only receive automated messages when you have an approaching deadline or an outstanding task. As soon as a step has been completed, you'll no longer receive messages about that event.
